ABSTRACT

Current as of June 21, 1979, the 19th Annual Arizona Tribal Directory is organized into three broad categories - reservations, services, and Indian organizations - and contains listings relative to the Arizona Indian reservations and federal, state, and other agencies, departments, and committees which provide services to them. Reservation population and acreage figures are included. The listings for the twenty reservations include office information; tribal officers, council members, managers, and directors; meeting schedules; and election data. Government agencies, departments, and committees are organized by the type of service provided: Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), education, employment, health, law and order, legal aid, public relations (press contacts), welfare, and miscellaneous organizations, such as arts and crafts, cultural centers, and Indian newspapers. BIA Area Officers, Directors, Agencies, and Assistant Area Directors are listed for the Phoenix and Navajo Areas. Other service agency listings note the chief Indian associations, their boards of directors or officers, members, purpose, and meeting schedule, and include such organizations as American Indian Scholarships, Inc., Arizona Commission on the Arts and Humanities, Native Americans for Community Action, and Inter-Tribal Council of Arizona. FOREWORD

The Commission wishes to express appreciation to those whose cooperation and interest has made the 19th Annual Tribal Directory possible.

This publication is one way the Commission endeavors to stimulate and improve the important area of communications.

Due to on-going tribal election changes, an up-dated Tribal Leadership List is available upon request from the Commission Office.

As the demand for the Tribal Directory is extensive, it is necessary to up-date our mailing list. You are encouraged to return the enclosed questionnaire at your earliest convenience. Those not responding will be deleted from the mailing list.

Your comments relative to the Tribal Directory are solicited.

Sincerely,

LEONA M. KAKAR - Chairperson

CLINTON M. PATTEA,
Executive Secretary

Note: This publication is current as of June 21, 1979.
